Animal Totally Wrecked a Musical Instrument Near Him on a Steamboat's Deck.

"Mule ate piano shipped." Send another next boat." This message was received recently by a local plano house from an "up-the-river" purchaser whose $500 instrument had been forwarded via Mississippi river steamboat. In its usual pine box the piano was installed on the lower deck next to a lanky, sleepy looking mule bound for the cotton fields of the 1.06 upper bends. Although provided with plenty of oats and hav, the mule ripped off a portion of the outer box, disposing of six octaves of black and white ivory keys, running the chromatic scale up to "G" in the treble clef. He had gnawed away the mahogany panels in front, masticated felt dampers and hammers by the dozen, completely wrecking the melodious 4 28 "insides" of the instrument. Steam-2.13 | boat Bill, stoking a boiler twenty feet away, said the mule "must have had his foot on the soft pedal," as he did not hear a note. When discovered the animal was unconcernedly gazing longingly across the river at a grass covered levee. It will cost $300 to re-5.32 pair the plano.-New Orleans correspondent Montgomery Journal.

Was Working in the Dark. Secretary MacVengt, at a dinner in Washington, was urging the need of scientific financial laws. "But let us make these laws scientifically," he said. "We must let in light. If we work in the dark, you know, we will go wrong-like young Cornelius Husk. Cornellus was called one winter morn ing before dawn, and told to go and harness the mule. The lad was too lazy to light a lantern, and in the dark he didn't notice that one of the cows was in the stable with the mule. As he tried to harness the cow his father, impatient at the long delay. shouted from the house: 'Corney! Corney! What ye doin'?' 'I can't get the 10.65 collar over the mule's head,' the boy replied. 'His ears are frozen.'"

In the club they were comparing the resourcefulness of their wives in difficult social situations. The man who lives in a Harlem flat had been a good listener, but he finally found an opening.

"Yes," said he. "my wife isn't bad at that sort of thing. We were having some people to luncheon one Sunday last spring, and just at an hour when all the delicatessens were 1.06 closed she discovered that she needed some mustard and didn't have a grain of it in the kitchen. And she isn't the sort that will borrow from people next door that she doesn't know. It was a bad fix, all right. But she 1.42 got mustard enough."

"Went to the delicatessen man's house and routed him out, I suppose?" suggested a member from the Broax. "Not much. Just went to the medicine closet, got down a box of ready-made mustard plasters, put 'em to soak, and squeezed enough of the hot stuff off." "Good night," said the man from the Brenz.-New York Globe.

1.42 Rhodesian Native, Returning From Mines, Was Scandalized By Unclad Relatives and Friends.

> A town in Rhodesia is not generally a town, declares Mrs. M. L. Woods in "Pastels Under the Southern Cross." A few scattered shops, a broad road deep in red dust, down which a sudden miscellaneous herd of blacks occasionally pours, constitute a town. Of these natives, Mrs. Woods gives the following description:

They are collected from all parts of Rhodesia, from Portuguese territory, even from Nyasaland, Dressed in anything and everything, they come pell-mell, grinning and chattering, some like young colts bounding into the air as they go. These happy fellows are probably rejoicing because they are being sent to some mine where certain of their friends and relations are already working.

This is the native as he appears entering on his term of service at the mines. I once saw a group of black men who had completed their term of service and were on their way home. They were serious, dign! fied, conscious of clean and complete costumes, consisting of shirt and trousers and a hard straw hat. Each had his neat bundle and his gally painted wooden box.

We were once appreciative witness es of the home-coming of such a miner at a wayside station. A party of relatives and friends had come from the kraal to meet the returning one, all innocent in their nakedness and rags. The plutocrat surveyed them with a scandalized eye; coldly he waved their salutations and endearments, obviously too shocked and pained to appreciate them. Then he withdrew from the platform to the foot of a neighboring tree, and beckoned his bewildered friends to approach. In a few minutes, before the eyes of the passengers in the train, he had clothed his whole party with decency, and surely, in their eyes with splendor. Then, and only then, did he condescend to return their greetings; and, exceedingly joyful, all marched off together in the direction of their kraal

ATTRACTIVE GOWN OF VIOLET SATIN

This attractive gown is made of violet satin with gold dotted chiffon. The bodice is of allover lace, with a high girdle of cerise velvet. The dotted chiffon veils the bodice and forms the sleeves, puffs and skirt tunic. The gown is trimmed with bands of fur, and the back panel looped under the tunic forms the

Salaries of Naval Officers

The pay of commissioned officers in the navy varies with rank and length of service, and there are numerous other factors which must be taken into account. Artificial Graveyard.

What is perhaps the most remarkable graveyard in the United States adjoins the old Spanish church in the ancient Indian pueblo of Acoma, N. M., and took over forty years to construct. The village is situated high in the air upon a huge, flat-topped rock many acres in extent and entirely bare of soil. In order to create the graveyard it was necessary to carry up the earth from the plain 300 feet below, a blanketful at a time, on the backs of Indians, who had to climb with their heavy loads up a precipitous trail cut in the face of the cliff. The graveyard thus laboriously constructed is held in place on three sides by high retaining walls of stone.

Where Moses Studled. The necropolis of Heliopolis, the intellectual center of Egypt for more than four thousand years, has been discovered by Daninos Pashs. Heliopolis also is known as the town where Moses received the sacerdotal and military training which preceded his leadership of the Israelites in their journey out of Egypt. The necropolis is situated in the desert a little more than three miles to the east of the Matarieh obelisk. There are many burial pits cut out of the rock in the last spurs of the Arabian range. Those which have been excavated by Daninos Pasha were from 65 to 220 feet deep. They were filled to the top with sand and contained embalmed human bodies and the skeletons of sacred animals and birds. Undamaged ibls eggs were found.
